

Life, Love, Consequences

The stories and poems in Life, Love, Consequences constitute a heartfelt response to life's journey, with all its ups and downs, joys and sorrows. While acknowledging the realities of life, this book will appeal to the dreamer and romantic in all of us who believe that, ultimately, life is indeed good, if only that we need a gentle reminder of how to stay on the right path towards actively participating in our own destinies. Through the characters and real-life scenarios in the pages of Life, Love, Consequences the rich tapestry of life is examined in the warm and life-affirming writing of Angela Kerry.

Angela Kerry is originally from Staffordshire in England and now lives in the southwest of Ireland with her two well-loved dogs, Ladybug and Shadow. She has worked in retail for many years and also loves working with angels and crystals and is training to be a reiki practitioner. She has had numerous articles published. Life, Love, Consequences is her first book.

Red Sun Publishing

Cover design: www.fairvoicedesign.com

Life, Love, Consequences

A collection of inspiring stories,
poems and illustrations

ANGELA KERRY

Life, Love, Consequences

A collection of inspiring stories,
poems and illustrations

ANGELA KERRY